

Artelia Italia expands its expertise in Mobility Infrastructure with the acquisition of Erregi S.r.l.

Rome, 6th August 2025 – Artelia Italia announces the acquisition of 100% of Erregi S.r.l., a Rome-based engineering firm specializing in the integrated design of transport infrastructure, including roads, railways, subways, tramways, and airports. This acquisition is part of Artelia’s strategic growth and diversification plan in Italy, which in recent years has positioned the company among the leading multinational engineering firms in the construction sector in the country, in terms of revenue and workforce. Artelia Italia currently generates annual revenues exceeding €75 million and is strong of over 700 professionals.

With this acquisition, Artelia Italia enhances its position in the strategic sector of mobility infrastructure—both urban and interurban—which is one of the core areas of expertise of Artelia Group. Artelia Italia is strongly positioned on the sectors of building, retail multisite, energy, industry, and transport infrastructure.

Founded by Eng. Giovanni Zallocco, following a career within the FFSS Group and academic experience as a professor, Erregi has been fully owned by the Zallocco family. For over 40 years, the company has delivered integrated engineering design and technical consultancy services in the mobility infrastructure sector. It has collaborated with major general contractors on large EPC contracts and with key public infrastructure clients across Italy, covering both rail and road projects, including urban developments.

Eng. Giovanni Zallocco will remain with Artelia Italia for the coming years to ensure a smooth transition and to support growth in the mobility sector, reaffirming his commitment to both Italian and international clients.

“The acquisition of Erregi marks an important milestone for Artelia Italia. It enables us to expand our expertise in a key sector for the country’s sustainable development. We are thrilled to welcome a highly skilled team that will significantly contribute to our exciting growth journey.”

— Gabriele Scicolone, CEO of Artelia Italia

“Joining Artelia represents an exceptional opportunity for Erregi to enhance our know-how and contribute to international-scale projects. We share Artelia’s strategic vision and commitment to quality and sustainability.”

— Giovanni Zallocco, General Manager of Erregi
